

CORRECTION !

Hello, if you arrived here through the site for Preservation 911 you may have read Todd Kimmell's submission for his house in Burlington City, which reads, in part:

"A visit to the Burlington County Historical Society library revealed much research done in the 1970s by a local historian named Dr. Henry Bisbee, but that information did not make it beyond the distribution of his Xeroxed newsletter.

The West Jersey History Group has recently added some of that research to their website at <http://westjersey.org/ivy.pdf> "

This is not accurate, and I have asked Mr. Kimmel to contact P-911 and have that changed to...:

"A visit to the Burlington County Historical Society library revealed much research done in the 1970s by a local historian named Dr. Henry Bisbee, but that information did not make it beyond the distribution of his Xeroxed newsletter. You may read some of these newsletters at <http://westjersey.org/ivy.pdf> "

While I participate in the West Jersey History Roundtable, my site is my own. The WJHR has a site at <http://westjerseyhistory.org>

The way it is written now might imply to some that the WJHR endorses the research and Mr. Kimmel's conclusions from it, and this is not the case.

I am very happy to host the information about Ivy Cottage and personally find it convincing, but the inaccurate statement about the "West Jersey History Group" needs to be amended.

To continue on to read Henry Bisbee's newsletters, please click the following link...

<http://westjersey.org/ivy2.pdf>

Thank you,
Bob Barnett
bob@westjersey.org